Formal Action To End Naval Treaty Is Taken By Japan

Japan Formally Gives Notice Of Treaty Scrapping

Abrogation Of Naval Ratio Treaty Is Announced To Washington

SECRETARY HULL RECEIVES NOTICE

World Naval Pact Will Come To End At Close Of Year 1936

BULLETIN (International News Service)

TOKYO, Dec. 22.—Japan formally notified the United States of her abrogation of the Washington Naval Treaty, thus automatically ending the 12-year-old pact and its 5-5-3 naval ratio at the end of 1936.

Foreign Minister Koki Hirota cabled the text of the notification to the Japanese ambassador in Washington, Hiroshi Saito, and the envoy was to hand it to Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

By the terms of the treaty, it will remain in effect until December 31, 1936.

Notification Forecast

The Japanese government has proceeded slowly but surely toward abrogation of the naval pact, the move gaining momentum with failure of the United States and Great Britain to accede to Japan's demand for naval parity at the recently-ended preliminary naval talks in London.

The cabinet, the privy council, and finally the emperor approved abrogation in successive steps, but termination of the treaty did not come until today, with notification of its other signatories.

Japan's decision to abandon the provisions of the Washington treaty by terminating before the end of this year was first revealed by International News Service in exclusive dispatches several months ago.

PANEWC OBSERVES

There were a lot of brilliantly lighted Christmas trees to be seen around the city last night. The snow of today will give the Christmas spirit to a lot more families and decorations tonight will be greatly multiplied.

At the Highland U. P. church on Highland and Park avenues, a lighted Christmas tree has again been erected on top of the structure over the driveway. It is in a fine place to show off, and is most attractive.

Downtown New Castle last night looked like a metropolis. With the great crowd of shoppers, with the lighted streets and with the spirit of Christmas in the air, it was a most inspiring scene.

There will probably be a rush for the stores tonight will be reminiscent of the days back in 1928 before the depression. There is every indication that business of this holiday season will eclipse any of four of five years past.

The countryside this morning presented an admirable Christmas picture. Snow which started falling during the night was clinging to everything on the landscape.

Postmaster Steen and his force making use of the fine facilities of the new postoffice building on the public square are handling the

Arch-Criminal Still At Large

Robert Mais, Desperate Killer and Escaped Convict, Gets Out Of Trap

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22.—Robert Mais, arch-killer, today was still at large despite a raid by federal agents on one of the desperado's hideouts in Riverside, N. J., following a "hot tip."

Federal men led by a George Harvey, head of the Department of Justice forces here, intent on wiping out the bandit who they say engineered the $48,000 holdup of the Philadelphia Electric company. Closed in on the cottage rendezvous, armed to the teeth. Their quarry, however, had fled.

Harvey refused to disclose the nature of clues he is working on. The cottage, scene of last night's descent, is across the Delaware river from the "kidnap house" where according to authorities, Mais and his gang held the missing William Weiss captive.

Woman Sheriff Makes Challenge

Demands Attorney General Make Facts Public On Dillinger Escape

(International News Service)

GARY, Ind., Dec. 22.—Attorney General Philip Lutz, Jr., stood challenged today by Mrs. Lillian Holley, Lake county sheriff and criminal court judge William J. Murray to make public any evidence he may hold as to exchange of money in the freeing of John Dillinger from the Crown Point jail last March.

Lutz has periodically declared that indictments may be returned yet against officials of "a northern Indiana county" as a result of the Dillinger break. He has never revealed evidence upon which these indictments will be based, it was stated here.

Sheriff Holley, from whose jail Dillinger escaped with a wooden gun, tried to call the hand of Lutz. She expressed a wish that the attorney general would find a way of proving who was responsible for the escape and thus clear the innocent ones now under suspicion.

Judge Murray of the Lake County criminal court branded Lutz's accusations unfair unless they were backed by action. He said:

"Mr. Lutz should first procure his evidence and then do his talking. It is very unfair for Mr. Lutz to continue casting insinuations about public officials without showing some ground for them, a thing he has never done."

toms of delirium tremens, but as far as can be determined there have been no serious casualties.

With Christmas just a matter of two days' distance, downtown New Castle is a helter skelter of men, women and children darting in and out of stores like electric puppets not timed right. They are all in search of gifts for the objects of their affections, gifts varying from gilt-finned fish from Finland to toy trains and teddy-bears.

Saucer-eyed little boys and dazed, happy little girls are getting glimpses of immortality, such as bright and shiny bicycles, scarlet scooters and very feminine dolls, all mixed up in a haze of tinsel and red and green lights. They forget their weary feet and discover long, unused wings, and flutter along like

(International News Service)

HAMBURG, Pa., Dec. 22.—A medical student and a young woman lay dead here today as the result of an automobile accident near Lenhartsville.

Enroute to their homes for the Christmas holiday, Wilson Glass, a student in Cornell Medical College, and Miss Anna Bokin, an attendant in the New York hospital, were killed almost instantly last night when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into a guard rail.

TWO ARE KILLED; FALL FROM CLIFF

(International News Service)
ONTARIO, Cal., Dec. 22.—The Devil's Backbone, a ridge of Mt. Baldy, near here, today apparently had claimed two youthful victims.
Oecil Shaw, 17, slipped and fell 100 feet to a ledge, and while his companion, Ronald McClain, 21, sought to rescue him, both lads fell over a sheer cliff of 1,000 feet.
Efforts to recover the bodies thus far have provided futile although in one effort a C.C.C. camp worker was lowered 400 feet on a rope down the side of the cliff. No trace of the bodies, believed buried in deep snow and ice, could be found.

KEEP POST OFFICE OPEN ON SUNDAY AT PITTSBURGH

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 22.—The Pittsburgh post office, in its desire to accommodate tardy "Santas," will forego long standing precedent and keep stamp and parcel post windows open all day tomorrow, Postmaster William Turner announced today. It will be the first time in history that the post office has been open on Sunday.

Letter Carriers Make Extra Trip

Deliver Mail This Afternoon Due To Holiday Rush

PARCEL POST TRUCKS ALSO INCREASE TRIPS

New Castle's letter carriers will make an extra trip this afternoon over the residential and business routes and the parcel post trucks will make two rounds of the city instead of the usual one, due to the holiday rush.

At the postoffice today crowds lined up in front of most every window, hurrying off belated greeting cards and parcels to relatives and friends. Postmaster Richard A. Steen said mailing windows at the office will remain open to night until 8 o'clock.

Heaviest Business

Officials described Friday as the heaviest mailing day of the season and pointed out that 110,000 cards and letters passed through the automatic stamp cancelling machine at the office yesterday. The parcel post business of yesterday was reported to have been a bit lighter than on the days just preceding.

Superintendent of Mails David B. Thomas said that "mails are moving on schedule." He announced that about eight extras accompanied regular carriers today over the heavier residential mail routes.

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 22.—Cash relief will replace food and clothing orders in Allegheny County as soon after January 1 as the state emergency relief board can arrange for the system, Eric H. Biddle, executive director, announced today. Biddle said decision to institute direct relief in Allegheny County was reached as a result of the success of that system in Philadelphia where it was started in mid November.

It was expected the remainder of the state, larger counties and districts first, will soon be placed on a cash relief basis.

The bureau has named Mr. Burger, an Erie resident, to supervise the census in Pennsylvania district number one. France Also Joins Japan In Sinking World Naval Pact

(International News Service)

PARIS, Dec. 22.—A new naval limitation agreement among the great powers in 1937 became a distinct improbability today after France joined Japan in sinking the Washington treaty.

Although her neighbors were decidedly uneasy over France's rejection of continued naval parity with Italy, experts here in Rome, and in Berlin belittled fears of an early European warship construction race. France does not intend to seek a factual 4-3 or 5-3 ratio with Italy, it was authoritatively said, and any continental naval competition will be fought out in diplomatic halls, not shipyards.

Martime observers pointed to substantial proof that France, like Japan, wants equality only in principle for neither nation has yet built up to the limits of the Washington treaty of 1922.

Nevertheless, France is expected to demand, when the five signatories of the dying Washington pact assemble for a post-mortem, recognition that she requires continental naval superiority because she has two seacoasts, Bay of Biscay—North Sea and the Mediterranean, to defend.

WILL ROGERS says:

(Special To The News)

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 22.—You know I told you Wednesday that it seemed kinder like an off day, nobody has turned in a plan. Well, they made up for it Thursday. Ninety leading industrialists met at White Sulphur Springs and drafted a new plan of recovery. One thing about these recovery plans, the same man can draw one up every week and no two of 'em will be alike.

Trouble with these plans is, the plan is generally to assist the planner's own business. Anyhow there is no use to get excited about any of 'em, for the one that Mr. Roosevelt uses will be the one that he dropped in the hat himself.

Yours,

Will Rogers

Hundred Fifty Children Made Happy At Party At Butler Ave. Plant

Christmas means more than just a holiday to the employees of the National Pants company this year. It means sharing with others less fortunate and bringing a little sunshine into lives that have had much of shadow. More than 150 little boys and girls are happy today because of the Christmas party staged by the National Pants club, the employees' organization, on Friday afternoon at the plant on the Butler road.

Some time ago the idea of the party was conceived by the members of the club and committees appointed to make the arrangements. One hundred boys and girls whose Christmas will likely be sparse of gifts were invited to the party, and with them the 50 youngsters at the Margaret Henry Home and the 18 youngsters of the Crawford Oakridge plant.

Santa Arrives. Shortly after the youngsters were delivered at the plant, Santa Claus drove up in his automobile. The lack of snow made it impossible to use the sleigh but he got there just the same. With a jangle of bells

Further Insull Case Prosecution Is Now In Doubt

Second Acquittal May Alter Future Course Against One-Time Magnates

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—Further prosecution of Samuel and Martin J. Insull on charges growing out of the two billion dollar collapse of the Insull utility empire appeared in doubt today.

With the return of a verdict of acquittal by a criminal court jury late yesterday in the embezzlement trial of Martin Insull, the state's Attorney Thomas Courtney that the future course of prosecution may be altered.

What may be done about the embezzlement trial of Samuel Insull, former head of the vast utility chain, which is scheduled for January 9, remains to be decided. It was generally believed that the trial of another embezzlement charge against the other brother, set for January 15, would be dropped.

The second "Vindication" of the Insulls in the management of their interlocking companies was returned by a jury in the criminal court of Judge Cornelius Harrington after eight hours of deliberation on the fate of Martin Insull.

The gray-haired 64-year-old defendant was charged with embezzling $344,720 from the treasury of Middle West Utilities company, of which he formerly was president. He was accused of purchasing for Middle West stocks of two subsidiary corporations which the state charged were "worthless" when his brokers demanded that they be liquidated as collateral from his personal trading account.

Divers Seek Body Of Wealthy Woman At Bottom Of Carmel Bay

(International News Service)

CARMEL, Cal., Dec. 22.—Choppy waters threatened to balk divers in resuming search today on the bottom of Carmel bay for the body of Mrs. Elliot Boke Schaffner, 36, wife of the wealthy Chicago clothing magnate, Joseph H. Schaffner.

Schaffner, who hurried here from Chicago, reluctantly accepted the police theory his wife had ended her life by wading into the surf four days ago when she disappeared from this health resort and artist colony. The grief-stricken husband was given an expensive slipper, found on the beach near the spot where bloodhounds lost their trail of the missing woman, at first feared a kidnap victim.

The slipper was identified by servants in Mrs. Schaffner's home here.

Empress Of Britain Reaches New York After Memorable "Tossing Around"

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—The Empress of Britain, 42,500 ton liner, came in today after the worst "tossing around" she had ever had.

She was 24 hours late and stove port lights, smashed deck glass and dismantled ventilators were plain evidence of her fight with the Atlantic weather which this week sank the Sisto and filled the air with S. O. S.'s.

Among her 240 passengers was Robert W. Bingham, U. S. ambassador to England, who was convinced that Europe's war alarms will prove to be only alarms and that some way eventually will be found to head off a naval race.

The ambassador gave chief credit to the League of Nations for averting the Yugoslavian-Hungarian crisis and added:

"The memories of the people of the frightfulness of the last war are still too vivid for Europe to plunge into another."

CANONSBURG, Pa., Dec. 22.—Four high school students—two boys and two girls—were killed here early today when the automobile in which they were riding from a junior prom was hit by a Pennsylvania railroad train and demolished.

Three of the students, Kenneth Culp, 18; William McKee, 17, and Miss Fern Harris, 16, were killed instantly. The fourth victim, Miss Jean Marshall, 16, died a short time later in Canonsburg General hospital. One leg was cut off and her body was badly mutilated in the crash.

Fog is believed to have obscured the automobile driver's vision. As his car passed over the grade crossing, it was caught by the locomotive and carried a distance of approximately 500 feet. TERRITORY DISPUTE THREATENS CLASH

Soviet Troops Cross Border

Russia And Manchou Forces In Dispute Over Border Line

CHANGE IN RIVER COURSE IS CAUSE

(International News Service) (BULLETIN)
LONDON, Dec. 22.—One hundred Soviet troops invaded Manchukuo today in the wake of a bitter dispute over a border fort on the Wuda-Ho river, according to a Reuters' dispatch from Harbin today.

Harbin, Manchuria, Dec. 22.—Soviet and Manchukuo troops faced each other today over disputed frontier territory, threatening the most serious clash yet in the Russo-Japanese quarrel.

Manchu forces surrounded a Soviet fort, and Bolshevik airplanes penetrated nearly ten miles within Japan's protectorate.

Soviet reinforcements were rushed to the aid of the fort's garrison.

A change in the course of a river was the cause of the impending battle.

Summer freshets altered the stream of the Wuda-Ho, a tributary of the giant river Amur, which flows along the Manchurian-Soviet border.

An island, formed as a result of the river's shift, was claimed by the U. S. S. R., and the claim was backed up by the construction of a "pill box" fort well-manned with troops.

The Manchukuo military commander in the district protested to Soviet authorities at nearby Khabarovsk, and was flatly told that the island was Soviet territory.

As a result, Manchukuo troops were ordered to the scene, pushing their way in barges through the ice of the half-frozen river, they surrounded the fort, and cut off the garrison's communications with Soviet authorities.

As soon as a courier brought word of the garrison's plight, Soviet authorities retained by rushing troops through the snow towards the fort from headquarters at Nikolsk.

rear seat, tumbled from its resting place when it struck a guard rail at the station.

Culp was dead but the twitching of Miss Marshall's life remained. Rushed to the hospital she died an hour later.

Blew Whistle
John Kress, Carnegie, engineer on the train, said he blew a whistle as the train approached the crossing where no watchman is on duty after midnight.

Coroner William Baker, Washington, was notified immediately and the bodies were placed in the care of Deputy Coroner William McNary.

Football Star Killed
Culp, who lives in Houston, is a senior at Canonsburg high school, where he was center on the football team for the past three years.

Both McKee and Miss Harris are from Canonsburg. The former being the son of John A. McKee, superintendent of the Continental Can Company.

Miss Marshall, whose home is in Brownsville, attended school at Canonsburg and lived with an uncle, Frank Carson, here.

Tragic Ending
The accident brought the gay Christmas high school dance party which the quartet attended to a tragic end.

At least four other serious accidents have occurred at the crossing within recent years, police said. No guard rails or signal lights are maintained and the crossing is left unattended after the watchman completes his duties at midnight.

Authorities said the Pittsburgh-Washington train, which is due here at 12:41 was late arriving. The crash occurred shortly after 1 a. m. For this reason many believe McKee, driver of the car, thought the train had passed at its scheduled time and felt there was no danger.

HUNDRED FIFTY CHILDREN MADE HAPPY AT PARTY

and a clashing of gears the old man drove up to the plant and stepped the guests gathered there.

A huge Christmas tree flashed its colored lights, tinsel decorations were festooned from strings and the stage was all set for the party.

Over in one corner was a chimney which proved to be a gold mine of candy, while under the tree was a pile of gifts. As each youngster passed by Santa, the old gentleman handed them a bag of candy, an orange and an apple.

The gifts had been brought by the employees and there was plenty for all the youngsters.

B. J. Ubray, newly elected president of the National Panto Club, presided as master of ceremonies and introduced Santa Claus, with a clown acrobat who accompanied him.

Providing amusement for the youngsters, following the presentation of the Margaret L. Henry Home sang several numbers and this was followed by the presentation of a number of gifts to plant heads, with John Urban, retiring president of the National Panto Club, making the presentations.

Handsome Gifts.
Max Shaffer, general manager of the plant, was presented with a handsome wrist watch, much to his surprise. After he had recovered from his surprise he expressed his appreciation. "I am proud of the employees of this plant for the splendid thing they have done today," said Mr. Shaffer.

"By your actions here today you have demonstrated the real spirit of Christmas in helping the company and for myself I want you to know that I appreciate you. As for the gift you have given me every minute it ticks away will be a reminder of your thoughtfulness."

James Smith, foreman, was presented with a bill fold; Miss Edna Strobel, women's foreman, was presented with a steak set, and Mrs. Josephine Mooney, was presented with a bill fold.

William Hoffman, mechanic, was presented with what purported to be a model 1935 sewing machine, but apparently someone had mistaken the year of its birth.

Pay day followed the party and as each employee lined up at the cashier's window there was a present accompanying the pay envelope. Each of the girls received a box of candy and each of the men a necktie.

The party was a happy day for the part of the National Panto Club. It was a mass demonstration of the spirit of Christmas and from the fact that they did what they did, Christmas will be a little closer to each one of them this year.

Sometime after the party it was discovered that Santa Claus was in reality Mickey Solomon and the clown acrobat was Art Byler.

pin-wheels while holding the hands of their dashing mothers and fathers.

No, you don't need a "balloon d'essai" to tell you which way the wind is blowing. It is blowing toward Christmas, in a noisy, merry hurricane. And downtown New Castle is the vortex of it all.

This reporter is going to stop writing, people to busy to read, anyhow, and go down where all the excitement is. But with apologies to Kipling here is a verse that has been coming on:

"If Christmas were as Christmas seems,
And not the Christmas of our dreams,
"But onlyinsel, grease and paint,
"How quick we'd chuck her, but she ain't."

Holiday Mail Hits Old Stride

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Christmas, 1934, is going to be the biggest Christmas since the old boom days of pre-1930.

Preliminary reports to the post office department indicate that from 15 to 20 percent more holiday mail is being handled this year than last.

And postal revenues are always considered a reliable barometer of general business conditions.

What gives the postal estimates more authenticity is the fact that they conform rather closely to the recent figures of the national Retail Drygoods Association showing department stores sales for this year are from 15 to 20 percent ahead of last year.

All Of Us

By MARSHALL MASLIN

AN UNMAILED LETTER

MY DEAR FRIEND:
I wonder how it happened that we drifted apart from our friendship. Once, years ago, we were so close that we did not need words for communication. You knew what I was thinking. I knew what was in your heart. It is true that we spent hours and days and nights in talking, and laid bare our secret wishes, our deepest longings, to one another. We trusted each other and knew that neither would betray the other. But words were not necessary. And it seemed then that we would be friends forever, till the last breath that either drew, whatever happened. Though the world fell into shattered bits around us, still we would be friends.

But the world divided us and the last time I saw you, it stood invisibly between us. You were not as you had been. I was not. All we had, it seemed, was the memory of our friendship. We had not quarreled. Nothing had happened which either of us could put into words. And yet we were not the same. You were older and so was I, but that should not have made the difference. I have friends whose friendship is as the granite of the hills, enduring through this little life of ours. Friends with whom I went to school, with whom I went to work, whom I see but rarely now—and yet I know their friendship has not changed. Why did ours go away from us?

You remember how we sat and talked the last time we met? We talked, but that was all. And when you had said what could be said and I had spoken of old acquaintances and told you that and that, we found a silence and an emptiness between us and we were embarrassed. I know I was and I think that you were, too. We had finished, there was nothing to be said, nothing to be done, and we went our separated ways once more. And I was sad and so were you, I think, because our youthful friendship was gone.

But I am sad no longer. I would not try to revive that friendship that was ours. I do not think it wise to cling fiercely to something that is gone from our lives. It is enough to remember how good our friendship was and cherish it, but not to try to nag it back to life. Let us keep what we have and surrender what we may keep no longer, and let our memories be enough for us.

And remember me as that sentimental one who was
YOUR FRIEND.

AVOID NEWSPAPER NOTORIETY BY GUARDING YOUR REPUTATION

The married man or woman who "steps out" by taking automobile trips should give consideration to the fact that an accident might occur.

If there is such an experience, newspaper notoriety is likely. In an effort to prevent publication of a story, friends of those involved make a rush for newspaper offices in an attempt to suppress the facts.

They forget that the business of a newspaper is to give its readers news in which they will be interested. The more prominent those hurt in an accident, the greater the news value of the story.

The readers have a right to demand "news while it is news," and a good newspaper serves that its subscribers get the news.

If you don't want to figure in the news, be careful what you do. Before the married man or woman contemplates seriously taking a trip with other than their married partner, publicity should be considered from the angle of "suppose an accident should occur," in which one or both are injured.

Newspapers cannot be expected to protect reputations when those concerned are not themselves careful to prevent or avoid a chance of scandal. Reputation is something of which the individual should be the first guardian.

Dinner Stories

WHY THEY WERE ODD

Little Benny looked up at his mother thoughtfully.

"Mum," he said, "I frown on his face, 'tell me—did you get me in a bargain basement?'"

"What ever makes you think that, Benny?" mother asked.

"The boy held up his hand. 'I was just wondering,' he replied. 'You see, my fingers are all odd sizes.'"

SOLVED

Mike saw his friend Pat riding along the road on his new bicycle.

"My but that's a lovely bike you have there, Pat," he said. "But why are ye ridin' it all lopsided?"

Pat gravely shook his head. "The pedals," he replied. "I can't reach them properly."

"Sure, but that's easily put right," suggested Mike. "Let some air out of the tire and all."

Correctly Speaking—

"Charge" should be combined, when it means "accuse," not with "of," but with "with."

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 4:39. Sun rises tomorrow 7:20.

Be thankful for a fatter Christmas, but keep alive to the fact that millions are in rags and tatters, discouraged men, frightened women, neglected children bewildered by five years of the mockery of wholesale poverty in the midst of plenty.

Don't expect too much of any code. Think how long it's taking to put over the extremely simple one Moses presented.

A nickel isn't supposed to be as good as a dollar, but it goes to church more often.

CHRISTMAS SOX
By DeLace Cole

Well! Christmas time has come again. And it fills us all with cheer.

For that's the time we think of Friends that we hold very dear. Now this problem of buying gifts is surely very trying.

Unless one has the where-withal with which to do the buying. There surely is one gift that causes lots of bother.

And that's the article the family thinks is best to buy for father. They ponder and they ponder Till he thinks their brain sure

When finally they decide. He needs a nice pair of socks.

When Christmas morning comes, And the parcels do appear, There's a host of precious things The family holds so dear.

And when father unwraps the paper From that pretty holly box, He lifts the lid and lo! and behold, There's his annual pair of socks.

He smiles and says I thank you folks 'cause you've remembered me.

And he looks as happy and contented as any man could be. When mother unwraps her package She finds a diamond ring.

And she exclaims, Oh! that's the very thing I wanted Santa Claus to bring.

She kisses her old Santa, and blushes like a rose, But she isn't any happier than father with his hose.

And the flapper of the family, Gets a beautiful fur coat. And she says, "Hot Dog." That's the very thing I mentioned, when to Santa Claus I wrote. Yes! She is very much elated over gifts from several beaux and she exclaimed Oh!

Father aren't you happy with your hose?

Now there's little baby brother, The king who rules the home. Playing with his teddy bear and tries to make it groan.

Yes! He is very much excited With all his toys and blocks, But not a bit more so than his Daddy with his sock.

While the family view their gifts So very fine and rare, Father sort of chuckles up his sleeve sitting on the side lines in his chair.

They continue their discussing. While father sits and smokes and rocks.

And suddenly discovers the wrong size of his sock.

Who is this old Santa that fills The family all with thrills? Why! He's the one they all call Father, he's the guy that pays the bills.

But the old man is happy, though it costs him all the money from his little iron box.

'Cause he always gets rewarded With a nice, new pair of socks.

We hope the usual local row will not develop over who will get the old postoffice building.

Only when a man notes an improvement does he change his opinion of himself.

We have often wondered why churches and some public buildings are always built so a flock of steps have to be mounted before one can get to the main floor. The new post-office is the latest to do this. There are more people who find it hard to go up steps that go to church than any other class of people.

The Hints and Dints man can remember where the New Castle post office was located in seven different places. That's going some in a short and turbulent life.

Judge: "Mose, is your wife dependent upon you?"

Mose: "She sho is, judge. If I didn't go out and get de washin's she'd starve plumb to death."

Some day the Christmas tree will be a rare thing if the present system of murdering the trees goes on. There are people who do not have Christmas trees just for this very reason.

HIS AMBITION
An old bell ringer at a parish church, though nearly in his 80th year, performed his duties regularly. The old man had seen many changes take place in the church, and was therefore rather upset at the suggestion made by the new vicar that, in consideration of his present age, he should be put aside his work.

"Look here, sir," replied the old man, cheerfully. "I was born and bred in this place, and in me time I've seen five vicars of the parish dead, and I would like to make it half a dozen before I give up myself."

The old-fashioned bathing girl used to make us think of Old Mother Hubbard, but the flapper of today resembles more her cupboard.

Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Staid England—even as more staid Canada—approaches a bitter struggle for a New Deal. The lines seem to be drawing.

A member of royalty, viewing the paganant unfurled before privileged eyes at the marriage of Prince George and Princess Marina in Westminster Abbey, remarked: "Take your fill now. We may never see such a sight again."

The real men of England were not in the Westminster picture. The paganant was made up largely of defunct royalty—royalty that, if it stuck its head into its own country, would have been executed.

The paganant of Westminster came as England began to find voice. Its chief voice for the moment, is David Lloyd George.

At 72, he is to tour England, with a program for a New Deal.

The war-time prime minister cannot hope to win politically. Only Labor can win. The Liberal party which Lloyd George would lead is fast becoming extinct.

Labor could win parliament today if there were an election.

The Nationalist (Tory) government, however, can put off an election till 1936—the end of the five-year term to which it was elected in August, 1931.

Although Labor now is winning all the by-elections, the Conservative majority is so great that it can prevent a general election for the present through a vote of lack of confidence.

ROOSEVELT AN ISSUE
President Roosevelt looms as the chief issue in England—as well as in Canada.

Labor and Liberals are for Rooseveltian ideas. Conservatives are shocked by them.

Following much agitation, two million pounds (ten million dollars) was voted for the relief of "distressed areas."

Says Lloyd George: "Think of that—two million pounds! An American congressman would be ashamed and fearful to vote such a small sum for relief."

A COMPENSATION
There was other compensation. Ten persons from the distressed areas were invited to Westminster Abbey to see the royal wedding—and the greatest aggregation of jewels in the world's history.

WEDDING GIFTS
We read in the Daily Express of London this description of some of the jewels presented to the royal bride:

"A thousand wedding presents arranged in three large rooms, a fourth piled high with unopened gifts, scores arriving daily.... tribute of the world to the Duke of Kent and Princess Marina.

"Diamonds, pearls, rubies, sapphires of fabulous wealth in settings of exquisite beauty are among the gifts to the princess.

"From the Duke of Kent, intricate diamond-set tiara, large modern ruby and diamond brooch, twelve-inch long ruby and diamond necklace, earrings to match, and bracelet.

"From the queen, magnificent sapphire and diamond set of two bracelets, earrings, three brooches, tiara, necklace.

"Most priceless of all, a small rivière choker of single, perfectly graduated diamonds.... from the king.

"From the king and queen, sixteen-inch necklace of diamonds and pearls.

"Newest design of all, an eternity ring from the Duchess of Mecklenburg. Diamonds cut by new invention by British cutter, Mr. Felix Behr, living in Paris. Will make diamond history. The princess is the first to have one.

"From the Prince of Wales and other of the royal family, a diamond necklace."

CONTRAST
As the paganant went on in London, a criminal hanged himself in dread Dartmoor prison.

Ernest Collins had been sentenced in May, 1933, to five years for housebreaking.

On October 12, a year ago, Collins and another convict broke away from a working party.

They gained a main road, held up a motor truck, threw out the driver, and escaped. Their freedom lasted an hour.

For that hour of freedom, Collins and his fellow convict was sentenced to three years further imprisonment and twelve lashes of the whip known as the "cat."

The men appealed. Their appeal was lost.

Collins was in horrible fear of the "cat." He saw, also, only the years ahead in that grim and hopeless prison.

With a piece of string he strangled himself.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

JUST AS TRUE NOW
It is true now. It has always been true that the Mongolian Tartar, the Russian's ancestor, the Slav and the Russian have been and are, without doubt, the most cruel of men.

Russian records found in Moscow tell the story of how a Russian governor, named Baranov, once exterminated the native population of the Aleutian Islands, now a part of Alaska.

This happened about 1800. Baranov wanted to clear the islands of natives because they interfered with his hunting parties. These old records show that in these whole-sale slaughter of thousands of Eskimos and Indians, Baranov's soldiers would line up as many as ten of his victims, one behind the other, in an effort to make one bullet kill as many as possible.

It is estimated that the islands had a population of 75,000 at that time, who were either butchered or escaped to the mainland.

The present Soviet government, unblushingly, have made public these records.

CHRISTMAS CUSTOMS
I like mistletoe and holly. Ribbons red and candles gay. I like all the bits of folly That are linked to Christmas Day.

I may be a quaint old fossil, But when Christmas morning comes On the sideboard I want wassail And a plate of sugar plums.

I like snow-flecked carol singers In a group about the door; Little pies and lady fingers In a large and generous store.

I like cookies sugar-coated Made in curious forms and shapes. I like fruit in jelly floated And a hanging sprig of grapes.

From the cellar to the gable I would have the smilax climb, And a boar's head on the table I should like at Christmas time.

There's no custom I'd be spurning Could I only have my wish. I would set plum pudding burning Like a bonfire on the dish.

I like home to be the center Of the countless Christmas joys. I like greeting all who enter Once again as girls and boys.

Oh, no custom would be missing Could I only have my way. For feasting and in kissing I would spend the Christmas Day. (Copyright, 1934, Edgar A. Guest)

Bible Thought For Today

TODAY Is The Day

By CLARK KINNAIRD Copyright 1934 Central Press

SATURDAY, DEC. 22

The World War Day By Day, Dec. 22, 1914.—The French Chamber of Deputies had its first meeting since Aug. 4. The government had returned from Bordeaux only a few days before.

The prime minister, Viviani, still the tongues of critics eager to cry out against glaring errors in conduct of the war, with an eloquent appeal for maintenance of national unity, saying, "In order to conquer, heroism on the front does not suffice. Union must prevail within our walls. Let us preserve the union sacree intact."

It was no time for peace terms, but he clearly stated France's: "France, in accord with her Allies, will lay down her arms until she has avenged outraged right, and regained for ever the provinces ravaged from her by force, restored to heroic Belgium the fulness of her material prosperity and her political independence, and broken Prussian militarism."

Thus it was made plain to Germany that it was a fight to a finish; she could not stop until she had won a complete victory or was ready to take the full consequences

Dec. 22, 1440—Gilles de Laval, Seigneur de Retz, Marshal of France, aged 44, was executed by strangulation for the murder of 126 persons. He was the original Bluebeard.

Dec. 22, 1775—First naval fleet of the United States was organized. Two 24-gun frigates, Alfred and Columbus, and two brigs, Andrea Doria and Cabot, were placed under command of Esch Hopkins, 58, who was given the rank of brigadier-general and a salary of $125 a month.

Hopkins, first commander in chief of the U. S. Navy, was summarily deposed on the charge he had not paid enough attention to "harrassing British shipping on the southern coast, that he was lacking in courage."

You're Wrong If You Believe—That dew falls from the sky. That a person's face indicates the degree of his intelligence and nature of his character.

That a person who doesn't look you in the eye when talking to you is most likely to be deceptive and dishonest.

SPEEDING THE HOUSING PROGRAM

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has appealed to the governors of 44 states to speed housing program legislation. The objective of the proposed program, of course, is to stimulate construction in the various states and thereby give employment to millions of idle men. There can be no denial of the oft-heard claim that there is an immense amount of building which should be under way.

For several years there has been a sharp let-down in construction and repair work. There is enough of that kind of potential work in this country at the present time to employ millions of men. The big problem is to get it started, and there are many thousands of property owners who are awaiting the completion of plans which will afford them an opportunity to finance the long-delayed projects.

AN OLD TRADITION IS UPHELD

It is a tradition that men who go down to the sea in ships are courageous, and ready to risk their lives if necessary to save those who may be in danger.

That tradition was gloriously upheld by the seamen who went to the rescue of the men aboard the Usworth and Sisto.

More thrilling than any fiction were the accounts of the bravery exhibited by the rescuers. They wrote two more outstanding chapters in the history of seamanship.

GROWING OLDER

It is a good several years since the Prince of Wales visited these shores in the role, primarily, of the most eligible young bachelor in the world. He dined in Long Island and rode in Westchester and he set the style, as he continued to do for some years later, in men's fashions. Today the prince is "getting on"—he's forty, where as Dr. Pitkin says, life begins.

Two events, however, are more truly revealing of his progress along the path of life than this mere milestone of the years. One, the marriage of his second youngest brother, has but emphasized the persistent state of bachelorhood of the eldest son. The other event is, simply, the prince's glasses. He wears them. The prince had a choice to make and he made it. He might conceivably have kept up the game a few more years with boyish clothes and rakish hats, stumbling around in his debonair and aged blindness until he fetched up against something substantial. But he has taken the other road.

He proposes to go with mature caution and such clear vision as optical science may afford him. And for such youthful antics as he may be obliged to forego he will be compensated not merely by such feelings of virtue as may come with honest frankness, but by a temperamental fitness the better to carry the dignity of a young man whose hair is graying and whose youngest brother has just been married in a somewhat ostentatious fashion.

ARE YOU AN HONORABLE?

Probably the only body of men in the country numerically stronger than that far-flung army, the Kentucky colonels, are those who sport an Honorable (usually written and sometimes pronounced Hon.) before their names. They are legion, of course. In their number are all members of congress, judges, governors, legislators, justices of the peace, defeated or elected candidates for public office and

Memberships In Home Will Aid With Cheer

"Cap" Rowland Asks Residents Of City To Think Of Children At Christmas Time

CAMPAIGN WILL END ON MONDAY

"No finer Christmas spirit could be shown at this time than to give the children of the Margaret Henry Children's Home, a vote of confidence by taking out a membership in the home," Cap. R. W. Rowland, chairman of the present membership effort, stated today, in a final appeal to residents of the New Castle district.

The membership effort which has been waged in behalf of the home, will end on Monday, and as yet many people have not been seen by those taking part in the campaign. Cap. Rowland urges the people of New Castle to pause for just a moment in their Christmas preparations to give a thought to these children, who will have no one else to think of them at the Christmas season but you.

By making a contribution to the maintenance of the home you will take part in the Christmas cheer, which will be spread at this Christmas season. It will let the children know that their wants will be provided throughout the balance of the year, that their coal bin will be kept filled, and their other necessities taken care of.

The response from those who have been solicited has been generous, but there is still a great need for more memberships to take care of absolute needs at the home, Mr. Rowland stated today, and it is hoped that the final days of the campaign will see the need supplied.

Ormond Also Goes To Oil City Post

Following the announcement of the promotion of RWD Director George Mudehart to the post of administrator of District 8 in Oil City comes the announcement of the transfer of Deputy Administrator Roger Ormond. Mr. Ormond has been transferred from the New Castle office to the post of deputy administrator in Oil City. He has been deputy here to Administrator James Moorhead.

Mr. Ormond came to New Castle when E. H. Robinson was transferred to Harrisburg. For a time he acted as director pending the appointment of Mr. Moorhead. In his new post he will have charge of the relief work, while Mr. Mudehart will direct the Works Division and supervise the entire relief operation.

BOY WILL GET HIS BICYCLE

Brand New "Bike" Ready For Lad Who Made Plea To Santa Claus

There is a Santa Claus and it will have been proven to a six-year-old boy Christmas morning when he awakens following a night of restful sleep and sees a new three-wheel bicycle beneath a Christmas tree to which will be a note attached, reading: "From Santa Claus."

A few days ago Police Matron Minnie McKibben recited the plight of a mother of three small children because a Santa Claus in a store had informed the six-year-old boy in response to a request for a "bike": "You will be sure to get one, my boy."

The distraught mother, who works only one day a week, revealed her plight to Police Matron McKibben. The latter issued a plea through telephone calls, each of the parties offering to provide some kind of a "bike" for the little lad.

Last night a real Santa Claus (he refused to give his name) visited Police Matron McKibben's home, new bicycle and said: "Tell the mother to go to the store of — and get the bike."

The mother did, hid it away and today Matron McKibben and the lad's mother were profuse to both the gentleman who played Santa Claus and The News and on Christmas the boy will realize "There is a Santa Claus after all."

Big Business Asks Hearing

Seek President's Ear As He Is Writing Message
To Congress

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—With President Roosevelt drafting his opening message to congress, "big business" today was seeking to make itself heard.

Quickly in the wake of administration criticism of the recovery program drafted at White Sulphur Springs came a defensive reply from C. L. Bardo, president of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Answering the charges of Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, that the business program would substitute a dose for the new deal's work relief, Bardo said:

"Criticism of the platform has been based largely on things it does not contain. The dose was not recommended. Rewarded work was. Return of relief functions to local governments 'as soon as practical' was urged and this has been set forth repeatedly as the attitude of the administration."

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt prepared to read the recovery plan drafted by the business leaders, which was critical of several administration policies. He indicated he would give it the fair and equal consideration which he gave to all reports submitted to him.

Auto Death Gain Lower In State Than In Nation

By ARTHUR C. WIMER

Special Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 22.—

The increase in automobile fatalities during the first ten months of this year was less marked in Pennsylvania than in the national generally, the American Automobile association reported today.

Such deaths in the country as a whole gained 15.9 per cent in the first ten months of the year over the corresponding period of 1933, the association stated. In Pennsylvania, on the other hand, the increase amounted to only 12.4 per cent.

Thirty states reported greater increases than the Keystone state.

Motor deaths in Ohio moved up 15.3 per cent, not quite equalling the national increase. In West Virginia, on the other hand, the decline 13.6 per cent. Only seven states were credited with decreases.

Today

All Aboard For Asia.
England Hangs A Woman.
The Absolute Ruler.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

AT BILTMORE, a giant airplane labeled "Clipper No. 7," has been launched, and soon will make regular flights across the Pacific. More planes of the same kind will be built presently.

The world grows smaller. Once the narrow English channel kept out invasion. Now the Atlantic and Pacific no longer mean protection for us, unless we have enough airplanes and submarines. The new ocean is the air.

THE WORLD moves slowly, keeps moving. England has just hanged a woman, no improvement there. But instead of yelling crowds expressing their delight, as used to happen at executions, two hundred and fifty men and women, on their knees, prayed for the woman about to die.

And this is the first woman hanged in England in eight years. England used to hang them by the hundred, chop off their heads, torture and burn them.

England could not quite make up her mind NOT to hang a woman. We hang or electrocute one occasionally here.

British labor members attacked Premier MacDonald because he did not interfere. The king, appealed to, would not meddle with his courts. But the crowd knelt and prayed for the miserable woman, instead of getting drunk, hooting and yelling, as it would have done 100 years ago. There is progress.

It must be ugly work putting a rope around a woman's neck and choking her to death or strapping her in our electric chair. But men are ready to do it for pay and governments permit it, and call themselves civilized.

IRENEE DU PONT, munitions manufacturer, who knows about war, since he produced "the goods," tells the munitions committee "the only way to wage a war is to have an absolute monarch at the head of the government."

"We shall have a hell of a time in case of war."

No question about the last statement, if war comes to this country, and finds us without air protection. Hundreds of thousands, perhaps millions of non-combatants would be killed by gas, in the first week.

THE SUGGESTION that only an "absolute ruler" could win a war is debatable. Germany had a ruler, absolute in war. Austria had one, England and France had none. England had Lloyd George, France had Clemenceau, two old men, neither a ruler or a soldier. Those two won the war. Russia had an absolute ruler, Russia collapsed.

France had no absolute ruler when, after the revolution, she made absolute rulers in Europe eat out of her hand.

There was an absolute ruler in Athens when Themistocles made Persia's absolute ruler, with his vast hosts, feel silly.

If the absolute ruler of any country should attack the United States he would sooner or later realize that he had played the part of an absolute idiot, although this unprotected country would have considerable difficulty at first.

With big automobile shows not far away, statistics supplied by Motor, an organ of the automobile industry, interest us all.

More than a million passenger cars were scrapped in 1934 and in spite of that, the number in use increased by 900,000. That is the first automobile gain since 1929, a most encouraging sign. It brings the total number of automobiles in operation above the 1928 figures.

The administration will be pleased to know that its "encouragement of agriculture is reflected in automobile purchases." States that lead in automobile increase are all cotton and other farming states: South Carolina, increased 25.9 per cent; Wyoming, 21.7; Arizona, 19.8; Florida, 18.2; Montana, 18.1; Oregon, 16; North Carolina, 14.8, and Georgia, 14.7.

Farmers get more money, thanks to the administration, and they have been spending it, most wisely, buying new automobiles.

Mahoning Valley Grange

GRANGERS IN PROGRAM

Members of the Mahoning Valley Grange, meeting this week, received an invitation from the Rev. S. D. McBride, pastor of the Mahoning U. P. church, to attend that congregation's Christmas program on Sunday evening, December 23.

Master Harold Hoyer was the presiding officer.

Two resignations were accepted this week, one from Mrs. C. H. McClelland as juvenile matron, and the other from Fred Montgomery as a member of the executive committee.

To fill the former's place, Miss Edna M. Robinson was named and to fill the latter Arthur Wright was chosen.

The Grange enjoyed a fine Christmas program given by the members. It included music, recitations and a variety of things.

Installation of new Mahoning Valley Grange officers will take place at its next meeting on January 8.

St. Michaels, Christians And Methodists Win

St. Michaels Take 24 To 22 Victory Over Epworth, First Christians Topple Hearts

St. Michaels church team pulled another one out of the fire at the "Y" floor in the New Castle Church league last night 24 to 22 over the fast Epworth M. E. team, with Balla the big star of the contest, scoring 15 points for the Babovskymen.

The game was exciting right down to the final minute of play, with Jimmy Shaffer trying to make it tough for the St. Mikes by dropping long shots. At the half the St. Mikes led 13 to 6.

The First M. E. team handed the Tifereth Israel team a 20 to 14 defeat last night with Grommes and Lockley the stars of the battle. At the half the First M. E. boys led 7 to 3. Solomon was the best bet in the lineup of the Tifereth Israel.

The First Christians pulled the biggest surprise of the evening by taking over the powerful Sacred Hearts team in a close and well fought game, 24 to 22, with Art Alexander, Latimer and Paul Morrison the outstanding stars of the occasion, with 17 of the points. The Hearts, Merando, with 10 points was the best. At the half the Christians were behind 14 to 9.

FAVORITE SONS OF '34

Within a few days 1934 moves into the past, and to some of the country's outstanding athletes it should be a sad event. The present year has been very generous with some of the highups of the sporting world; it has carried many to the top rung from a very humble position at the depths of athletic success.

In boxing there is the world's heavyweight champion, Maxie Baer. Max was only one of quite a large group of contenders for Primo's crown a year ago but now he has the most coveted title in boxing. And not only that, but he has brought his kid brother Buddy into the money with him.

Now there are two Baers making money out of the fight game and neither of them is doing any fighting. They are touring the country in vaudeville fashion, Max refereeing a Dempsey and his kid brother fighting "legitimate" battles. Buddy struts his stuff for a round or less and then has his opponent, McGorty, or some such fighter, out for the count. He might just as well take a sun sheet into the ring and warble "Fun To Be Fooled" for all the fighting that goes on.

At any rate, the Baer and Baer firm can certainly thank 1934 A. D. for putting them over.

And then there is Joe Louis, the present ring sensation. Constant readers of this column will remember that a whole article was devoted to the young Detroit negro on August 18, when he was at the beginning of his professional career. Joe has justified all the good things we said about him but at this time last year he was only a 19-year-old kid in the amateur light-heavy class.

Turning now to baseball, you'll have to admit the Detroit Tigers were favored the most by 1934. They didn't win the pennant but you must remember that they were only rated as a second division club before the season started. Dizzy Dean and the Cards proved their masters but then they were rated quite high before 1934 came into existence.

In 1933 Paul Dean was only a minor leaguer but with the new year he became one of the most widely known of baseball players. The younger Dean wasted no time being just an ordinary big leaguer but developed from a minor league player into a ranking star immediately. He accomplished in his first season what many other stars fail to do in a lifetime when he pitched a no-hit, no-run game last summer.

Enough for baseball; now we'll take a look at the gridiron. There is nothing to see in this picture but huge Gophers. Minnesota moved from an ordinary Big Ten team into a class by themselves above all other teams in the land. In skyrocketing to fame the team carried such names as Lund, Kostka, Larson, Bevan and Widseth in blazing lights.

Tennis found Gene Mako of Southern California forging to the front during the past year. Gene has started what looks like a long and successful tennis career.

Remaining on the Pacific coast we'll give three cheers for a rising young golf star whom they claim can really swat a ball. He's Lawson Little, Stanford star, who has already won a national title.

Jack Medina has been a good swimmer for some years but he didn't become nationally prominent until this year. He, too, is from the Far West—Seattle and the University of Washington.

When track and field events are mentioned you probably think of Cummings, McInnis, and Benhoun as the 1934 stars. These fellows, however, reached the top before this year. The lad 1934 ushered into the hall of fame was none other than Jack Torrance, the shot-putter from Huey Long's Louisiana State.

Jack can lob the 16-pounder over Sexton's old record from a reclining position in a rocking chair any time he wishes.

And then there's Cavalcade, the Chicago Blackhawks, Wild Bill Cummings, yes, and even Knox. 1934 was their year and they'll always look back on it as the time they reached stardom.

The Perelmans handed the Johnsons a 24 to 22 defeat in a close and hard fought game, with Kelly and J. Shaffie the big stars for the Perelmans and with Augustyn and Mackiewicz the big stars for the Johnsons.

REFEREE'S LIFE NOT HAPPY ONE

Referee Amby McGarry takes a right-hand smack from Johnny Morro on the chin as he separates Morro and Lew Monte at St. Nicholas' palace in New York. The referee just laughs it off.

AND THEY CALL HIM "SHORTY"

Alphonso Willhausen Dr. James Naismith
One of the tallest centers in American basketball this season is Alphonso (Shorty) Willhausen of St. Louis, member of the University of Kansas varsity five. He is 6 feet 7 inches tall and weighs more than 200 pounds. With him is Dr. James Naismith, inventor of the game of basketball and now a professor of physical education at the University of Kansas.

Noted Coaches Are Somewhat Amazed At Big Expose At W.&J.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Apparently, Dr. Ralph Hutchinson, president of Washington and Jefferson, the man who paid and told, was all alone today in his self-confessed renunciation of subsidies and other things in connection with college football, the doctor having admitted that three years ago his institution dispensed the sum of $40,000 annually so that football players might not suffer socially in the gay whirl of the campus. The doctor may or may not be surprised by the national reaction, depending on whether he knows human nature or merely, so to say, suspects it.

Some were amazed; others amused. They seemed to feel that Dr. Hutchinson was either very glib or was having a private and irreverent laugh at the expense of a sterling enterprise.

Among those amused was Coach Gus Dorais, of Detroit University, as follows:
"If W. and J. paid out money like that, it was cheated."

Coach "Slip" Madigan, of St. Mary's, said he'd never lose a game if he had that kind of financial support: "not one dollar for subsidies," said President M. L. Britton, of Georgia Tech; Coach Harry Hughes, Colorado Aggies, did even better than that; he said not one cent.

Major John Griffith, commissioner of the Big Ten, was more elaborate in his disclosures. His figures showed, said he, that 92.7 per cent of athletes had Big Ten scholarships and that the percentage of non-athletes was 11.4. Moreover, said he, two of his institutions had no scholarships at all and that another has 52 scholarships for students and none for athletes.

Harvard Head Irked
Yale and Wesleyan mentioned "mental ability" as the only qualification for scholarships and Bill Bingham, Harvard athletic director, was plainly irked by the question.

"Don't you know," said he, "if we had anything like that, we wouldn't be looking for a new football coach. Eddie Casey could have won at Harvard if we offered star players any inducement to come here. We just don't."

All "Pop" Warner, of Temple, cared to say in Atlanta last night was: "W. and J. should have gotten a whale of a good football team for forty thousand."

In other words, Dr. Hutchinson, a man doesn't have to be a football player to have everyone against him. But it helps.

Shenango High Defeats Union

Shenango High Remains At Top Of County League By 33 To 16 Victory

Shenango High School basketball team remained in a three-way tie with New Wilmington and Bessemer for the County High School league by taking a 33 to 16 victory over Union High last night at the Shenango High gym floor. In the preliminary game the Shenango High girls defeated the Union lasses 22 to 20 in a well-played game.

In the boys' game the Rameymen took the lead in the first few minutes of play and were never in danger throughout the entire battle. At the end of the first half the score was Shenango 17, Union 7.

Leitonen, Hortege and Tanner were the scoring stars for the Shenango team, with Todd and Schas the best for the Boydem. In fouls Shenango shot 9 out of 14, and Union made but 2 out of 8.

It was the third straight county league victory for the Raney coached machine.

New Wilmington Tops Mt. Jackson

New Wilmington High Upsets Mt. Jackson In County League, 36-16

New Wilmington High School basketball team stayed out in front of the pack in the County High School league at New Wilmington last night winning 36 to 16 over the fast Mt. Jackson High quintet. In the preliminary game the New Wilmington girls and the Mt. Jackson girls played a tie game at 24-24.

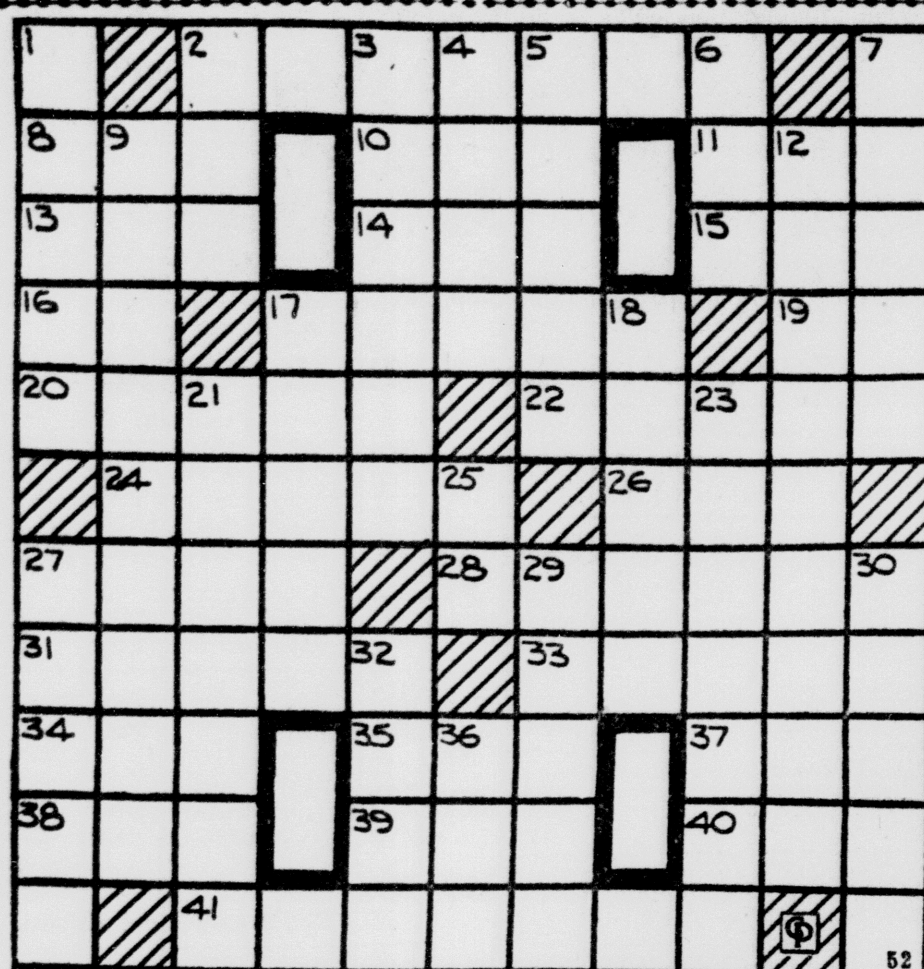

The Mt. Jackson team took the lead in the first period 4 to 2, but Coach Eagleson sent his varsity star Minner into the game in the second period and New Wilmington team had a lead of 12 to 8 at the end of the first half.

The third period ended 24 to 12 with the Eaglesonmen leading. Minner, Eagleson, Clark and White played a fine brand of basketball. For the Spearman the work of Stevenson, Snyder and Bair was the best.

Next Friday night New Wilmington High will play Hickory High at the New Wilmington High floor, it was announced.

The Old Home Town — By Stanley

ON HIS RETURN FROM A SECRET SHOPPING TRIP TODAY, MR. FUZZLE WAS "TRIPPED" WHEN HE WAS WITHIN HIDING DISTANCE OF A DARK CLOSET.

THE TUTTS By Crawford Young

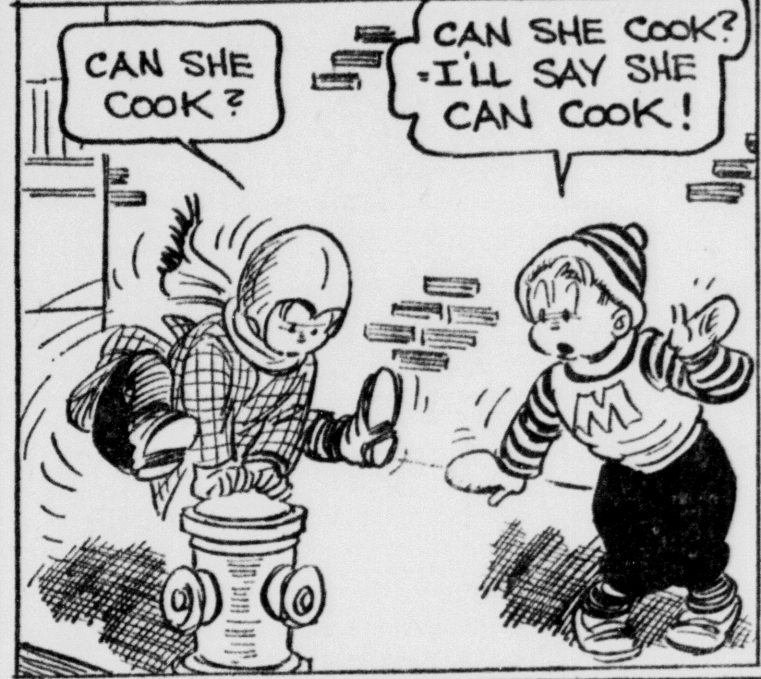

DREAM CASTLES FALL
He had succeeded in selling the most expensive radio on the stand, and was mentally spending the commission when his customer's voice brought him back to earth. "There's just one little adjustment I'd like you to make," she said. "Yes, madam?" "We're not fitted with electricity," she told him; "will you have it converted, please, for gas?"

BOILING IT DOWN
"My dear boy," effused the elegant lady of aristocratic demeanor to the schoolboy at the gates of the high school, "will you—ha—inform Hector Reginald Cornelius Mannington-Mannington that his mother has arrived?" "Sure, mam," returned the boy, then, facing the playing fields, he yelled, "Sniffy, the old girl's blown in."

STOCKS

Stock Market
Is Irregular

Few Isolated Strong Spots
Today In Otherwise Dull
And Irregular Market

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—With the exception of a few isolated strong spots, the stock market was dull and irregularly lower today. While pressure on the utilities was not heavy, there continued to be scattered selling in the group which forced United Gas Improvement to duplicate its low for the year. Consolidated Gas, Public Service, American Water Works and Columbia Gas were barely steady. Postponement of the Radio Corp's recapitalization was reflected in a large turnover in the common and preferred B. stocks. The common jumped about a point on blocks of 1,000 to 5,000 shares, while the B. stocks fell nearly 5 points. The contemplated plan was understood to be highly favorable to the B. stock and correspondingly unfavorable for the common stock thereby accounting for today's movements. American Can was the outstanding feature of the list as it mounted another fraction to reach a new high for the year. United States Steel, Bethlehem and other old time stock leaders, though, were soft and fractionally lower. National Distillers was another strong spot rising fractionally to a new high on the movement apparently reflecting hopes of good earnings this year and also the possibility of a dividend next year. Other liquor shares were dull.

Henry Home, Crawford-Oakridge Children To Receive

Resuming a long-observed custom which it set aside last Christmas only because existing relief organizations filled the annual needs, the New Castle Lodge of Elks this holiday season will play Santa to the children of the Margaret L. Henry Children's Home, Friendship street, and the Crawford-Oakridge Home, Atlantic avenue.

Bertram Davis is chairman of the lodge committee handling the Christmas donations for the homes. The Elks have received from Miss Margaret Henry and Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. McBride, the homes' supervisors, a list of the clothing needs of the boys and girls, and, at an informal program late Christmas eve, the clothing and shoes will be handed out by Santa Claus.

Filling the role of Santa will be William Wray, this city, veteran Santa for Pittsburgh's Syria Temple of the Shrine organization who has acted that part for over 15 years. He will give out the Shriners' toys and the Elks' packages at the same time.

Assisting Davis on the Elks committee are the following lodge members:

Dear Brother Lion:
Since Christmas falls on our regular day of meeting, we will forego our meeting on Tuesday.

In behalf of the Lions club, I extend the greetings of the Christmas season to all those who have aided and contributed to our work among the blind and to those who have received assistance from our club.

If we have contributed toward the happiness and contentment of any boy, girl or other resident of Lawrence county during the past year, we are glad for that. Merry Christmas!

Very truly yours,
THOMAS I. ELLIOTT,
Secretary.

White House Puts On Holiday Attire

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—The White House put on its Christmas clothes Friday.

Actual festivities will not begin until Christmas eve but the tall white porticos of the home of presidents were decked out gaily in Yuletide garb.

There were four Christmas trees on the porch facing Pennsylvania avenue. Two of these will be lighted at night. A three foot green wreath swung over the front door, and just inside the lobby, there was a profusion of Christmas flowers and shrubbery.

There were small spruce and hemlock trees, green rope, holly, dozens of poinsettias, all against the background of a wreath five feet in diameter which hung on the wall.

AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 24 hours ending at 3:30 p. m. December 21, two arrests on charges as follows: suspicion 1, drunkenness 1.

Solicitor Robert White has informed council that it will be necessary for him to file about 1,000 liens for taxes which have become delinquent. They will be for the years 1932-34 inclusive. The cost of filing each lien is $1.50. White informed council.

Council did not give serious attention Friday to the petitions from several women's organizations in which it was asked the city use their influence to secure the old postoffice for library purposes. The city would like to have it for their own business. As yet the city hasn't got the building.

Most of the gasoline station proprietors who were reported to be delinquent with payments for the privilege of occupying a location between the sidewalk and the curb have paid the city, according to officials of the department of streets. Only two have not paid the amount due the city.

It will cost the taxpayers of New Castle approximately $240, for the grading of Ralph Avenue between Morris street, and Moravia street, according to Municipal Engineer Harry Hoskins. The total cost will be $23,383. The RWD will provide the labor.

When council gathered Thursday and compiled a tentative budget for 1935, no one would suspect a stormy session had been held several days prior. Councilmen are human and they disagree on various things which shows that not everything is "cooked" to everybody's satisfaction.

No group of city employees requested an increase in salary when council met the second time to fix the budget although it is known the police did confer with Mayor Mayne relative to a restoration of a portion of the wage lopped off two years ago. They abandoned their efforts when he told them city finances would not withstand it.

Relative to the quota of city policemen there are supposed to be 48 officers in the department. Actually there are 41. Only one patrolman had been added to the department since Mayor Mayne took office. Later his berth became vacant. Some new equipment has replaced old equipment but the payroll is below that of several years ago.

Councilman opinion is that fire hydrants which have been installed for 50 years cannot be in very good shape and when Safety Director D. Davies said it was highly probable some would have to be replaced no objection was made. Davies has announced that none but satisfactory hydrants will be allowed in business zones.

No successor to the late Andrew Sands, city assessor, will be named until absolutely necessary, according to Finance Director Albert
